Community Innovation Grants Program Basics

Headwaters Foundation for Justice is proud to partner with the Bush Foundation to offer Community Innovation Grants, which support communities to use problem solving processes that lead to more effective, equitable, and sustainable solutions. This grant allows communities to increase collective understanding of an issue, generate ideas, and/or test and implement solutions. We offer Community Innovation Grants three times per year.

Applicants can request the amount needed for their Community Innovation project, within the $500 to $10,000 range.

We look to you to identify and define your community. For example, this could be a geographic community (e.g. neighborhood, town, state, or Native nation) and/or it could be a community of common interest and/or racial/cultural identity.

We are not prioritizing any specific issues and instead are open to projects that address all sorts of community needs and opportunities. In addition, projects can be at various stages of the problem-solving process including identifying the need, increasing collective understanding of the issue, generating ideas, or testing and implementing solutions. Proposals can focus on one area or span multiple stages.

Community Innovation Grant Criteria

The proposal must be for a new project or process

The project must be completed within one year. The project can be a one year phase of a multi-year initiative.

Fit with Community Innovation Grants Program

Does the project use inclusive, collaborative, and resourceful processes?

Inclusive: meaningfully engaging key stakeholders – thoughtfully identifying those needed to create the intended change and including those directly affected by the problem

Collaborative: a true joint effort, with partners willing to share ownership and decision-making as they pursue an innovation together

Resourceful: using existing resources and assets creatively to make the most of what a community already has

Innovative: leads to a community innovation - breakthrough in addressing a community need or opportunity that is more effective, equitable, or sustainable than existing approaches

Implementation

Is the project plan thoughtful and realistic? Does it address the identified community need?

Does the applicant have the capacity to execute the work effectively or have a plan to meet the needed capacity?

Impact

Is the project likely to make a significant, sustainable difference, now or in the future?

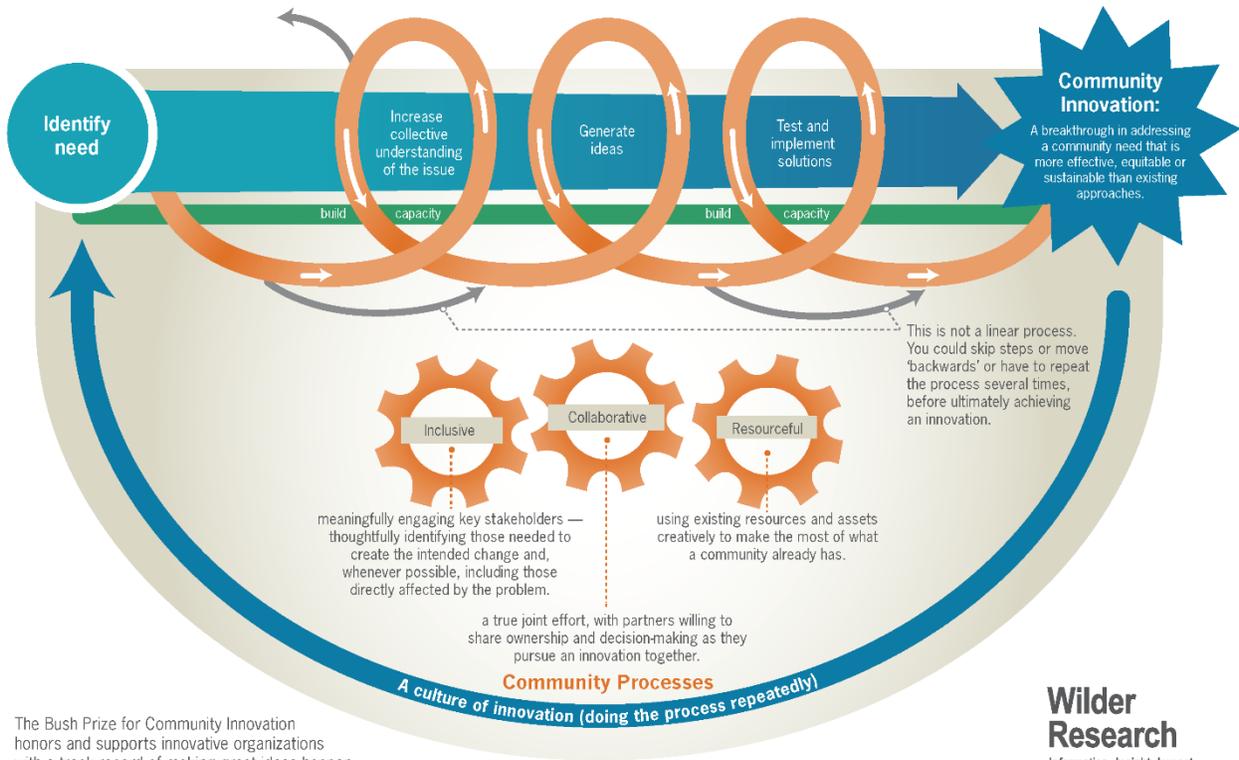

Will the project inspire or inform others?

Portfolio

At least 50% of Community Innovation Grants will be projects that address racial and economic disparities. For the purpose of this grant program, we define this as proposals that seek to actively reduce structural and/or systemic gaps in access, outcomes, opportunities, or treatment based on race/ethnicity or economic standing.

Theory of Change

Please refer to the Bush Foundation visual below.

The Bush Prize for Community Innovation honors and supports innovative organizations with a track record of making great ideas happen.

Community Innovation Grants support communities to use problem-solving processes that lead to more effective, equitable and sustainable solutions.
